

Frontline Apps Schema for App Designers

App Creator can be configured to almost any functional spec you can think of (a new design, or maybe even some standalone template you have been using for years, and you want to retain for your users to minimise change): a dashboard, a tool, an app, a report, anything*.

*Whatever you want to call a configuration is your call: branding is more about front-end look and feel than back-end. If you get clever with your designs, an app starts to look like a report and a report starts to act like an app.
